MEDICAL AND CHEMICAL

REFORM.

ADVICE FREE.

New-York Benevolent Infirmary,

ESTABLISHED 1856.

And devoted to The Cause of Medical Reform; to the Diffusion of Medical Knowledge for the Prevention of Disease, and to the relief of those suffering and afflicted with Chronic and Virulent Disorders. To this end this Infirmary is endowed, to enable the sick and suffering throughout the length and breadth of our land, to avoid the Poisonous Drugs, Extortion, and Ignorance of professed Physicians, through which thousands and tens of thousands annually perish.

The following are some of the diseases we cure, not only at the Infirmary but in all parts of our country:

Consumption and Pulmonary Complaints, Fevers, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Eye and Ear Disease, Cancers and other Tumors, Jaundice and Liver Complaint, Seminal Weakness, and all diseases of the Urinary and Sexual Organs, from whatever cause or whatever nature. Our object will be to cure just as expeditiously as possible in all cases accepted for cure, but our rule is to charge nothing for advice and written prescriptions; but will furnish when requested the very best medicines at the lowest rates.

Such remedies are prepared in our own Laboratory, under the care of able Chemists, and are the most reliable known to science, including all the recent discoveries.

Send a blessing us by letter, containing full account of symptoms and appearance of disease, age, occupation, &c., with all directions, &c., and by return mail or express if desired. Send for our "Circular," in favor of our worth and ability for yourselves, as published at the Infirmary, to aid these objects.

THE PENNSYLVANIA BATTLE CRY.

BY T. A. BECHET.

TUNE—"Gay and Happy."

Hark! the trumpet calls to duty:
See! our glorious Flag's unfurled!
The Stars and Stripes unite in beauty,
The pride and envy of the world.

So let the world jog along as it will,
We are for the Union still:
For the Union; for the Union;
We are for the Union still.

If we wish that Flag respected,
We must answer honor's call;
Duty must not be neglected,
Though our dearest friends may fall.

So let the world jog, &c.

Traitors have betrayed the Nation,
But we will by the Union stand;
Let every patriot seek his station
With the gallant warlike band.

So let the world jog, &c.

Though the Rebels have exulted
In their treason and their shame;
Yet the Flag they have insulted
Still retains its honored name.

So let the world jog, &c.

Long its folds shall float above us,
While we shout our battle cry:
"We will fight for those who love us,
But let every traitor die."

So let the world jog, &c.

Pennsylvanians, to your station!
Boldly meet the traitor foe;
Fight as bravely for the Nation
As you did in Mexico.

So let the world jog, &c.

Then your names shall live in story,
And echoed be from strand to strand;
Then fight for Liberty and Glory,
The Union and your Native Land.

So let the world jog along as it will,
We are for the Union still;
For the Union; for the Union;
We are for the Union still.

WHAT DID HE LEAVE?

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

"That's a large funeral. I counted thirty-two carriages."

"Yes, sir. It's the funeral of Mr. Ellis. He died very rich."

"How much did he leave?"

"A large amount of money, sir; I don't know how much; some say half a million of dollars!"

"His death is considered a great loss to the community, I presume."

"Loss, sir?" The man to whom I was speaking looked up into my face with the air of one whose mind was not exactly clear as to my meaning.

"Yes, a man of his wealth must have been a very useful man."

"Useful? I don't know that he was particularly useful. He was very rich, and didn't care much for anybody but himself."

"Still, with his ample means," said I, "even though caring only for himself, he must have been the promoter of large industrial enterprises, through which many were benefitted."

The man shook his head doubtfully.

"What did he do with his money?"

"I never heard of his doing anything with it particularly," was the unsatisfactory answer.

"Money must be used in order to make it productive. Was he in no business?"

"No, sir."

"What then did he do with himself?"

"Oh, he was about after bits of property that had to be sold. He was sharp for bargains in real estate."

"Ah! I see how it was. Then he did find use for his money?"

"In that way he did; but when a piece of property came into his hands, there was an end to its improvement. He let other people improve all around him, and thus increase the value of what he owned; so that he grew richer and richer every day, without putting his hand to anything, or benefitting anybody."

"This was your million man! And so, all he has left are the property accumulations?"

"All."

"Then his death is not regarded as a public calamity?"

"No, indeed, sir! It is considered as a public benefit."

"How so?"

"He has a couple of sons, and a couple of sons-in-law, who will scatter much faster than he saved. The moment they come into possession of his estate, it will be divided; and lots of ground, which ought to have been improved years ago, will be sold and covered with handsome buildings—thus giving trade and industry a new impulse. Why, sir, he has been a dead weight on our town for years—growing richer through other people's enterprise, and yet not adding a building himself, or in any way serving common good."

"I thought," said I from the long array of carriages, that death had taken, in this instance, a valued and now lamented citizen."

"Mere ostentation, sir. But nobody is deceived. There are plenty of idle people who are pleased to ride in funeral carriages. Old Ellis will be put away with a grand flourish, but that will be the last of him. The black makes all the mourning, sir."

"But surely," said I, "his children are not without natural affections? You do not mean to say that theirs is only the semblance of sorrow?"

"It is my opinion, sir, that they are glad in their hearts. Why not? He stood, hard and unyielding as iron, between them and the wealth they desired to possess. He was cold, sour-tempered, and repulsive—crushing out, by his manner and conduct, all natural affection.—They had too much policy to quarrel with him, of late; though the time was when hot words were said to pass between them."

"There are no gleams of light in your picture," said I.

"I copy from nature, and can only give what I see," he answered. "There are deep valleys where the sunlight never comes, as well as bright and golden-tinted landscapes."

"I see another funeral," said I, looking towards a distant part of the cemetery.—"There are but two carriages; yet I see a long line of mourners on foot. Do you know whom they are burying?"

"Yes."

"Not a rich man?"

"No."

"There is no need of asking what he has left. It is the funeral of a poor man."

"Yes, of a man poor in this world's goods; but, so far as his means went, he was princely in his munificence. His death, sir, is a public loss." The man's face brightened as he spoke.

"You knew him?"

"Yes, sir; knew him well. He was a ropemaker, working his ten hours every day, and earning just nine dollars a week. But those nine dollars seemed an inexhaustable fund for good. He had no wife and children of his own to love and care for. They went, years ago, to the blessed land where he is now following them.—So, after supplying his own humble needs, the ropemaker had five dollars every week left over for investment. He did not put this in a savings bank; nor buy tumble-down houses for the poor to live in at a rent of fifty per cent. on their cost; nor take up lots to hold for an advance in price, consequent on neighboring improvements. No; his investments were made in a different spirit, as you shall see.

First, he paid, regularly, every week, to a poor woman in his neighborhood, who had two children to support, and who could not leave them to go out to work in families, the sum of three dollars, as teacher of little boys and girls whose parents were unable to send them to school. Two hours in the morning, and two in the afternoon, these poor children received instruction. He was their benefactor, and hers also; for it was one of his sayings, that we must make the right hand help the left. His means of doing good were small, and so he made them go as far as possible."

"He was a noble fellow," said I, in admiration of this poor ropemaker.

"Tom Peters—yes; there was fine stuff in his composition, if his hands were dark and bony, and if his clothes did smell of pitch and rosin."

"He has left tender and fragrant memories."

"He has, sir. That long line of funeral attendants are all true mourners. There is no sham there."

"And what else did he do with his money?" I asked, growing interested in the ropemaker. "He had two dollars a week, still, for dispensation."

"Yes. Let me see! For one thing, he paid a boy half a dollar a week to read two hours every evening to a poor blind woman; and, in order that this reading might not be given to a single pair of ears alone, he took care to have the fact known, that as many as chose might come and listen. The consequence was, that more than a dozen persons met every evening at the blind woman's, to hear what was read. This suggested to Tom the way in which another half dollar might be usefully invested. The men in the rope-walk were mostly in the habit of spending their evenings in taverns. Tom found another lad who was a good reader, and paid him half a dollar weekly to read aloud two hours each evening, for such of his fellow workmen as he could induce to assemble for the purpose. He began with three; soon increased to ten; and when I last heard of the matter, over twenty men met together, after each day's work, to hear the boy read."

"Admirable!" said I, with enthusiasm. "Admirable! I never heard of a wiser investment. And he still had one dollar left?"

"Yes."

"How was that disposed of?"

"In ways innumerable. I cannot recount them. The good which Tom Peters managed to do with that dollar is almost fabulous—not, of course, as to magnitude, but as to variety. It seemed to duplicate itself, like the widow's oil and meal, whenever drawn upon. You were always hearing of some good acts in which a dispensation of money was involved. Of a poor woman helped in making up her rent; of a dainty sent to a sick neighbor; of a pair of shoes to a barefoot boy in winter; or of a book to a child. Why, sir, Tom Peters has left behind him enough good deeds to endow a calendar of saints!"

"So I should think, after what you have said of him."

"And yet, sir, remember, he only earned nine dollars a week!"

"I remember that, very distinctly," I answered. "Yes, sir; his death is indeed a public calamity. It is no figure of speech, to say that 'his grave will be watered by tears.'"

"None, sir, none. He will be sorrowed for by hundreds, and his memory will be greener and more fragrant as the years pass by. He built his own monument before he left us—of good deeds."

I parted from the stranger; and as I walked from the cemetery, I said to another man, who stood by my side while I looked at a fine piece of emblematic statuary: "They have been burying a rich man."

"Yes," he coldly responded.

"What did he leave?"

"Nothing but money."

"They have been burying a poor man, also."

"Tom Peters." A light broke over the man's face.

"But he had not even money to leave," said I.

"But something far better," answered the man, in a tone of rebuke.

"What?"

"Good acts, which, like good seed, will reproduce themselves a thousand fold.—Tom Peters, earned just nine dollars a week; and Edward Ellis, Esq.," (there was cutting contempt in his tones,) "was worth, it is said a million of dollars; yet the humble ropemaker did, while living, a hundred times the most good with his money, and leaves an estate that shall go on increasing in value through countless years; but the estate of old Ellis will not pass to the third generation. Tom Peters had the true riches, sir—the riches that are imperishable. People ask, when a man like Ellis dies, 'What property has he left behind him?' But when one like our good ropemaker passes away, the angels ask, 'What good deeds has he sent before him?' That is the difference, sir—the immeasurable difference between the two men! One, in giving, made himself rich. The other, in withholding, became miserably poor; so poor that his memory is green in no man's heart."

I turned from the cemetery with some new impressions stirring in my mind, and the question, "What kind of a legacy will you leave?" pressing itself upon my mind. "Let it be good deeds rather than money!" said I, half aloud, in the glow of earnest feeling, and went back again into the living, busy, stirring world, to take up the laboring oar which I had laid down, in weariness, for a brief season, and bend to my work with a serener spirit, and, I trust, a nobler life-purpose.

ERIN GO BRAGH.—The following stirring "Appeal to Irishmen" appeared in posters over the city of New York, last week:

"ERIN GO BRAGH."—Irishmen, Haggerty must be avenged. Our gallant countrymen of the 69th have covered themselves with imperishable glory.—They proved themselves not only heroes but christian men—as generous to wounded foes and prisoners as they were invincible in battle. But how were they treated by the barbarous enemy? Let the fate of the gallant Capt. Haggerty, who, lying wounded on the field rendered immortal by the heroic deeds of the 69th, had his throat cut from ear to ear by a dastard rebel hand, attest. Irishmen, the heroic Corcoran is in the power of these cut-throats! Shall he meet with such a fate as that dealt out by the rebels on his brave comrade in arms? Forbid it genious of Erin! The grass would wither on the tortured bosom of our green Mother Isle, should we permit it. Sons of Erin! countrymen of Corcoran, to arms! Let there be ten thousand Irishmen on the south bank of the Potomac in twenty days, their battle cry being—Corcoran, Rescued if Living, Avenged if Dead!

CUNNING OF THE BLACK FOX.

A correspondent of Wilkes's Spirit, at Augusta, Maine, gives a long account of his hunt of a black fox last winter, whose manœuvres to escape the dogs were really wonderful. We quote from his letter:

The fox proceeded very leisurely, as if he knew that he could outwit "old Ben," (the dog.) He passed through a narrow strip of alders that fringed the pond, and went into a large, rough field upon the side-hill just opposite, and in full view of me. Here the wind had blown most of the light snow from the crust. The fox now commenced "setting a sum" for the dog. He would run in a circle two or three times, and then another on the edge of the first, and then in the old one again, and cross and complicate the track in every possible way; he then went up the hill and laid down under the shelter of a pine bush, where he could see the dog work out the puzzle. By the time old Ben was crossing the pond, Joe had joined me. I explained to him the state of the game, and, although it would have been an easy thing to have shot the fox, we agreed that we would remain quiet and see the thing out.

Soon old Ben was unraveling the track. He seemed to appreciate the state of things; he ran slower, with his nose nearer to the snow, and he gave tongue with a suppressed voice. He was not once baffled, and as he unraveled turn after turn and crossing after crossing, his voice became more and more assured. Soon the fox started for the other end of the field, and set him another puzzle, which he finished by running round a large stump many times, then jumping upon the stump, and then from that to the top rail of a fence, and running along on that until he came to the road; he then jumped as far into the road as he could, and then disappeared. I looked at Joe; he was in a brown study; but in answer to my look, he said—"Folks say that animals haven't reason." I had no answer for him. Ben soon worked the trail up to the stump, seeming bewildered for a moment, gave one uncertain howl, and then commenced a set of circles of his own. As he came up to the leeward of the fence, his joyful cry gave notice that he had found the trail. When he came to where the fox left the fence, he soon picked up the track by his "system of circulation," as Joe calls it. Says I—"What's the row with that flock of sheep?" pointing to a flock that was rushing out of a barn-yard in evident alarm. "He is trying to mix his tracks up with theirs, so that Ben can't tell t'other from which."—The yelping of a cur, as he chased the fox off into the field, showed that Joe was right. The sheep were hardly back into the yard before ben was among them with his "Boo-oo!" and another stampede took place. Ben held the track now easily.—The dodge was tried too late in the chase, for the scent was getting warm; the dog took it breast high.

Pretty soon the fox found a hole and disappeared under ground, much to the discomfiture of old Ben. I stopped up the hole with a rock, and started off for a shovel and pick. We stopped at a spring and took a lunch, and there discussed the possibility of the hole having another outlet. Says Joe—"Suppose you try the war-whoop." I immediately selected and climbed a tall tree, while Joe took his station on the top of a hill commanding a good view of the surrounding country.—I then startled the whole country with a succession of infernal yells, which my sporting friends believe to be the Tuscarora war-whoop. Not two minutes had elapsed before the result of that music was visible. "What the devil is that?" exclaimed I, pointing to the crest of a hill in the distance, and at the same time sliding down the tree in double quick time. I had seen something black skirting along the top of the snow. I first thought it was a crow, but at the next instant we both exclaimed—"The black fox!" My yell had frightened him from his cover, and he had started out again at another hole. Old Ben was soon on the trail, apparently as fresh as if he was just from the kennel. Away he went—now in an old swamp, now in the open field, then among the pine trees. We stood still, with ears open, waiting to see what direction he would take. Ben opened as a dog only does when he has the game in view. He was evidently driving the fox directly down upon us. Says Jo—"What does that mean? That fox is not coming back here." Joe went over the hill, to command that part of the woods, while I held the upper edge. By the time I was fairly located, a red fox, with Ben in close chase, came rushing down for the woods. I never was so disgusted with the sight of any animal, and muttered between my teeth—"this is the devil's work." I saw that he was giving me a "wide berth," but it would not do to move—(a fox will not see you if you stand still)—I must take my chance and make the best of it. As he passed the nearest point that I should have him, (it was at least eighty yards,) I gave him the cartridge. I saw through the smoke, by the flick of his tail, that he was hit; he also disappeared around the hill towards Joe's station. In a moment I heard the report of his artillery and the whoop, which assured me that it had been successful. We wondered how the dog had lost the trail of the black fox and come upon the red one; but on following the back track we were enabled to find where he had started him up. He had been lying in a thick clump of bushes, through which the other fox had passed, undoubted for the purpose of getting the dog off the scent and putting him on the scent of the red one. We soon found the track beyond this clump, and Ben was again giving tongue on the trail of the black fox. The result of that chase convinced me that the black fox deliberately and wilfully sacrificed the red one for his own safety. The dog had not followed more than half a mile before he found him enseonsed in a hollow log. As soon as he found that the dog had left him for the red one, he went quietly to rest. In a few minutes what we had been hoping and hunting for, for years, lay at our feet—the most rare, beautiful and valuable animal of the American forest—the black fox.

ON OPINIONS.—For the most part, people are born to their opinions, and never question the truth of what their family, or their country, or their party professes. They clothe their minds as they do their bodies, after the fashion in vogue, not one in a hundred ever examines his principles. It is suspicion of lukewarmness to suppose examination necessary, and it will be charged as a tendency to apostacy if we go about to examine them. Persons are applauded for presuming they are right, and (as Locke says,) he that considers and inquires into the reason of things is counted a foe to Orthodoxy, because he may possibly deviate from some of the received doctrines. And thus men, without industry or acquisition of their own, (lazy as they are) inherit local truths—that is, the truths of that place where they live, and are inured to assent without evidence. This hath a long and unhappy influence; for it a man can bring his mind at once to be positive and fierce for propositions whose evidence he hath never examined, and that in matters of the greatest concernment, he will naturally follow this short and easy way of judging and believing in cases of less moment, and build his opinions upon insufficient grounds.—Watts.

IRISH HUMOR.—An Irishman called on a gentleman in thirtieth street, New York, and begged for a small sum, saying—"The fact is, yer onner, me wife's jist dead, and we want to have a bit of a wake over her. Now, I've got exactly a quarther ov a dollar, that is all; and Docthor Billing what lives round the corner, told me you were a pretty good fellow, and would no doubt help me to the wake."—"O, you've mistaken the house," said the gentleman; "it's Mr. O'Connor, a rich countryman of yours who lives next door, that you want." "That don't make the laste bit ov difference, yer onner. I'd as soon have something from you as from him. I've no national prejudices. Sure, isn't an American's money as good as an Irishman's?" The gentleman was so tickled with this reply, that he gave Pat a half dollar and told him he'd better try O'Connor.

TO MAKE SPRUCE BEER.—Allow an ounce of hops and a spoonful of ginger to a gallon of water. When well boiled, strain it, and put in a pint of molasses and half an ounce (or less) of the essence of spruce; when cool, add a teacup of yeast, and put into a clean, tight cask, and let it ferment for a day or two, then bottle it for use. You can boil the sprigs of spruce fir, in place of the essence.

ANT RIDDANCE.—The Bee Journal says that copperas will banish ants from beehives, by putting it around where they crawl up, and on the benches. It will also keep them away from cupboards.—Copperas will also kill roaches and bugs, if put in their way.

Retaliation.

From the accounts we have had of the cruel barbarity practised upon our wounded at Bull Run, by those who have heretofore boasted that they were the "chivalry" of the land, it would not be astonishing were our soldiers, in the next great battle, to retaliate. We read one account where Surgeon Barnes, of the N. Y. Twenty-eighth Volunteers, had established his headquarters under a tree in the rear of the regiment, and had hung up his green sash, to signify that the place was under the care of a surgeon; and to him the wounded were brought in until he had around him some thirty or more. He was busy amputating limbs and dressing wounds, when the rebels discovered the place and the nature of the men in charge, and began to pour in musket-balls and projectiles from rifled cannon. The place became unsafe either for the Surgeon or the wounded, and the Surgeon's assistants and servants having become separated from him, he was compelled to go himself to procure ambulances. It required near half an hour to secure these means of conveyance for the wounded, and when he returned he found that every one of those wounded men had been bayoneted or sabred, and was dead! Are not such acts enough to arouse the worst passions of our natures, and create a longing desire to repay in like manner? While we deprecate a war of such a character, we fear that it is to be forced upon us. Already the watchword of many regiments in our army is "no prisoners," which is equal to saying "no quarter." This is fearful. It is destructive of all the good qualities which we hope to find in the true soldier. While there are many who will not accede to the cry of "no prisoners," and spare the suppliant for mercy, all are not imbued with virtues of this nature, and woe be to the rebel who falls into their hands. They have set our soldiers an example in cruelty, which will likely be improved upon to the sorrow of the originators.

Hon. Simon Cameron.

In all the troubles and dangers our beloved land has been subjected to in the past few months, no man has been more faithful to his post, devoting the whole time of his great mind and untiring energies to his country's service, than the present able, efficient and popular Secretary of War, Hon. Simon Cameron. The labor he has performed, since the 4th of March last, both of body and mind, has been almost marvellous. With a nerve to suit the times, administrative abilities of the highest order, quick, active and untiring, joined to a perfect knowledge of men and great experience in the business world, Simon Cameron is just the man to be at the head of the War Department of the United States at a time like this. It is admitted by the candid of all parties that we have had no Secretary of War, for many years, so combining in him all the qualities so peculiarly fitting one for the position, as the present one—whilst all will readily admit, that at no time in our country's history has that position been coupled with the reponsibility and the labor that rests on it now. Most fortunate has the President been in his selection of Gen. Cameron, and most fortunate has the country been in securing the services of the man.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

There are a few party papers in the country whose editors dare to assert their manhood, and rise above the dictates of party leaders, and among them we are pleased to find our respected cotemporary, and fearless leader of the Democratic party in Huntingdon county, the editor of the Huntingdon Globe. He dares to call things by their proper names, and in doing so styles the New York Day Book a traitorous secession publication, and warns the public against it. In speaking of a Democrat in that county who defended the course of the Day Book, and charged that the present war was one between the Abolitionist of the North and the people of the South, and declared that he would sooner hear of the Rebels taking Washington, than that Democrats should take up arms to defend it, he uses this language:

> We cannot believe there are many such Democrats in the county; if there are, the sooner they are known the better it will be for the community in which they live, for the Democratic party, and for the country. With men who are so blinded with political passions as to make it impossible for them to see the right and stand by it, and by their Government, unless their favorite political leader occupies the Presidential chair, we want no fellowship. The war was forced upon the country by the South—not by the Southern people, but the Southern politicians, who have for years been aiming at the destruction of the Union. The honest masses of the South have been dragooned into the will of the political desperadoes, and it is now for the true men of the Union to say whether the great majority of the people will submit, to the tyranny of the few, or still stand firmly and unitedly by our liberties and our flag. Where our flag goes, every man worthy of being called an American will follow; and he who assails it in arms, or he who sympathizes with those who assail it, should be looked upon as an enemy to the greatest and best Government that ever existed.
> We know no other party in the contest with the Rebels of the South, or the Rebels of the North, than the one united party of the friends of the Government. We will not inquire whether he who carries our flag into the Rebels' camp is a Democrat or a Republican; or whether he who directs our army is of this or that party. If the army moves to punish the enemies of our flag, we shall not first inquire the political opinions of the President before we give the movement our sanction. Abraham Lincoln is at the helm—placed there by the people—and we shall look to him to save this Union from destruction. We have confidence in his patriotism, and we shall not hesitate to give him all honor in his efforts to crush rebellion; and when victory crowns his efforts, he will receive the plaudits of all good men, irrespective of party.
> What a blessing to the country, and what a stimulus to those who go forth to battle for Union as it is, would be the press of the loyal States, did the editors of each possess the spirit evinced in the above extract. They must yet come to it or they must go down. The people will understand the cause of the war, and the only way of sustaining the Union; and he who seeks to raise a false issue, or divide and distract the friends of the Union, will meet with that scorn which his traitorous conduct deserves.

"Green be the turf above thee."

On Sunday last, at his sister's residence, in the borough of Huntingdon, WILLIAM S. AFRICA, known to most of our readers, quietly expired. He is dead. It is with sorrow we record it. Noble, generous and true, he has gone. Mr. Africa was a native of Huntingdon, and for many years Prothonotary's clerk, in his native county. On the division of the county he removed to Hollidaysburg, where he has been acting in the capacity of Chief Clerk in the same office, until within a short time of his death. His advantages of education were limited, yet he possessed a strength of mind, vigor of intellect, and solidity of judgment, which would have capacitated him for much higher sphere of action in life (had he aspired thereto,) than that in which he was content to move. His natural aptitude and good sense were exercised and improved by constant habits of critical observation of men, manners and things. Quick, as well as accurate, no one could come in contact with him, without being struck with his business qualifications.—Always obliging and attentive, he was a universal favorite with all who visited the Prothonotary's office.

It is sad to think that one, who has been so useful to the world in a limited sphere,—and who might, and we doubt not would, have moved in a broader field of action, had life been spared,—should be thus cut down in the prime of his manhood. But it is not ours to murmur at the decree of Him "who doeth all things well." Mr. A. will be much missed, and although after death one is soon forgotten, we feel sure he will long be remembered by many as an honest man, and a true and devoted friend.

☞ No person can look at the position which this State occupies without a feeling of honest and patriotic pride. Her bearing throughout this war has been without ostentation, and she has done her duty, not caring whether she was the theme of fulsome newspaper articles, or the subject of constant commendation. Her sons were the first to go to the Capital—her sons were among those who shed their blood at Baltimore. Her regiments are in the East and in the West. They have been in the armies of M'Clellan, McDowell, and Patterson. They have fought in Western Virginia, in Northern Maryland, and along the banks of the Potomac. Her response to the first demand for troops was speedy—no less speedy was her response to the second. And of the fifteen regiments sent to Washington since the President's second call, ten are from loyal Pennsylvania.

Our State now has almost ready for the field:

One regiment of Cavalry, of	1,040
One regiment of Artillery, of	1,040
Twelve regiments of Infantry, of 1,040 men each,	12,480
Fourteen regiments accepted directly by the U. S. Government, of 1,040 men each to take the place of the three months volunteers returning,	14,560
Showing an aggregate of	29,120

To this aggregate add the troops already furnished for three years:

The Pennsylvania Reserve Corps of thirteen regiments	13,520
The four regiments accepted for three years as above referred to	4,160
The enlistments from Pennsylvania for other States,	5,000
		22,680
And we have a grand aggregate of men of		51,800

Under the first requisition for three months volunteers, our State furnished 19,520 men—thus showing that in the space of six months Pennsylvania has contributed as her quota for suppressing rebellion 91,320 men.

We print these figures, not from any feeling of vanity, nor even from a pardonable spirit of State pride; but to simply place our State properly on the record, and to show precisely what she has done to maintain the integrity of the Union.

☞ Some of those journals that presumed to take the management of the affairs of the nation out of the hands of the Cabinet and Gen. Scott, and whose constant cry was "On to Richmond!" have, since the battle of Bull Run, in the heat of their indignation at the defeat they have brought upon the army of the Republic, called for changes in the Cabinet—seeking to shield themselves from the censure their unwise course has bro't upon them, by casting the blame upon others. But no changes will be made.—The people approve of all the acts of the present Cabinet, save that of listening and yielding to the dictates of these newspaper generals. There is no time to be lost in calling new men into important offices. The enemy must first be attended to, after which we can make settlement with unfaithful servants at home. We admit that there are some for whom there is a fearful reckoning in store, but they are not those to whom is entrusted the movement of our armies. Some who now occupy prominent positions, will, when the conflict is over, sink far below even Jeff Davis in the estimation of their fellow men. Let those of our public officers who have been faithful to their trusts remember that history will do them justice hereafter, although a partisan press may now revile them.

READY TO ADVANCE ON WASHINGTON.—A correspondent of the Memphis Argus writes under date of Richmond, August 6th:—"I am informed by a friend from Manassas, who remained in the city but a few hours, that everything is in readiness for an advance upon Washington. If we reach that city, drive the enemy from the Relay House and Baltimore, capture Fort McHenry, and be in readiness to march to Philadelphia, should it be necessary to do so, we may consider the war virtually over. The Northwest, however, is just now in a critical position. General Wise has retreated to Lewisburg, and will probably await there the arrival of Gen. Lee, unless Gen. Cox should pursue him from Charlestown. In that event he will lead his four thousand to some impregnable pass in the mountains, and, if the worst comes, this spot he will consecrate as a second Thermopylæ."

SOLDIER'S FEET IN MARCHING.—A correspondent sends the following receipt for making an excellent composition for anointing the feet of soldiers during long marches:—Take equal parts of gum camphor, olive oil, and pure beeswax, and mix them together, warm until they are united and become a salve. At night wash the feet well, dry them, then apply this salve, and put on clean stockings and sleep with them on. Next day the feet will be in excellent train for marching. Our correspondent proved the great value of his receipt in a journey across the plains to California in 1852.—Scientific Amer.

GREAT BATTLE IN MISSOURI.

Gen. Lyon, Ben M'Culloch and Gen. Price Killed.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13th.

Gen. Lyon, in three columns, under command of himself, Seigel and Sturgess, attacked the enemy at 6½ o'clock, on the morning of the 10th, nine miles southeast of Springfield. The engagement was severe. Our loss is about 800 killed and wounded.

Gen. Lyon was killed in a charge, at the head of his column.

Our force was 8,000, including 2,000 Home Guards.

The muster-roll reported taken from the enemy, gives their force at 24,000, including regiments from Louisiana, Tennessee and Mississippi, with the Texas Rangers and Cherokee half-breeds. This statement is corroborated by prisoners taken. Their loss is reported heavy, including Gens. M'Culloch and Price.—Their tents and wagons were destroyed in the action.

Gen. Siegel lost one gun on the field, and retreated to Springfield, whence, at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 11th, he continued his retreat on Rolla, bringing off his baggage-train, and $250,000 in specie from the Springfield Bank.

J. C. FREMONT.

THE LATEST.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—The dispatch contains the same intelligence as that conveyed by Gen. Fremont's, with the exception that the sum of money brought by Gen. Siegel from the Springfield bank is placed at $25,000.

It embraces the following more detailed account of the conflict:

The following is a verbatim report of the special messenger to Gen. Fremont:

Early on Saturday morning Gen. Lyon marched out of Springfield, and came up with the enemy on Davis Creek, on Green's Prairie, four miles southwest of Springfield, where they had taken a strong position.

Gen. Lyon fired the first gun at twenty minutes past six o'clock, when the battle immediately commenced.

A severe cannonading was kept up for two or three hours, when the fire of Totten's artillery proving too severe for the enemy they gradually fell back towards their encampment on Wilson's Creek.

Lyon's cavalry on the left flank, and Siegel's artillery on the right, then began a terrific attack, and spread disaster and dismay in the ranks of the rebels, pursuing them to the camp.

The shells from Totten's artillery set fire to their tents and baggage wagons, which were all destroyed.

A Louisiana and Mississippi regiment seemed to suffer most, and were almost annihilated.

Some time in the afternoon, while Gen. Lyon was leading his column, his horse was shot from under him. He immediately mounted another, and as he turned round to his men, waving his hat and cheering them on to victory, he was struck in the small of the back, and fell dead to the ground.

The command then devolved upon Gen. Seigel, and the pursuit was continued until nightfall, when our little army rested for the night in the enemy's encampment.

On Sunday morning Gen. Seigel, fearing that the enemy might recover and attempt to cut his command from Springfield, fell back on that city where the Home Guards were stationed Then, fearing that the great numbers of the enemy might induce them to get between him and Rolla, Gen. Seigel concluded to fall back on Rolla with his prisoners and baggage trains, and meet reinforcements.

At the time of the departure of the messenger the enemy had not been seen, and it is probable that Gen. Seigel had not been disturbed on his march.

Ninety rebels were captured, including a Col. of distinction, the messenger not remembering his name.

The sword and horse of Gen. M'Cullough are among the trophies of the battle field.

Reinforcements for Gen. Seigel were on the way to Rolla, and the army may be considered as safe.

WHY THE CONCORD STANDARD WAS MOBBED.—We don't wonder that an indignant regiment mobbed the office of a New Hampshire paper. The editor should have been strung up a wee bit. Here is only one of a few specimens of the matter which the edition of the paper referred to contained:—"Our Southern papers are filled with heart sickening accounts of the murders and robberies which individuals in Old Abe's Mob are perpetrating on the Southern people. Innocent women and children are shot on their own door-steps, for wearing what is called 'Secession bonnets.' No wonder the Northern people run when the honest men of the South march toward them." This was too much for Yankee endurance, and hence the mob, and the destruction of the printing office.

JAPANESE GARDENS.—Fond as the Americans are of their gardens, they would appear to be excelled in this respect by the Japanese. Every one of these singular people, both rich and poor, is said to have a garden—the latter, if possible, both in front as well as in the rear of their cottages. In them they cultivate the plum and cherry, not for the fruit, but the flower.—By a peculiar treatment they improve them so much as to make the flowers become as large as roses Indeed, it is stated that plum blossoms have been seen four times the size of our common cabbage roses. In the season when they are in full blossom, these trees afford a delightful sight in the gardens and about the temples and public walks.

A CLINCHER.—The Louisville Democrat says, in reply to the whine of the tories about a country held together by force: "We all, indeed, deplore the use of force in executing laws; but still we can't accept anarchy, and the destruction of a country. It is certainly no more despotic to try to save a country by the sword than to undertake to destroy it by the sword."

☞ The New York Herald publishes a list of the wounded prisoners at Richmond and Centreville. Total, five hundred and nineteen. At Richmond there are two hundred and ninety-four, of which twenty-four had died from wounds. At Centreville there are two hundred and twenty-five, of which twenty had died.

☞ Gen. Sam. Houston can find no exercise for his sentiments in the national crisis, and leads a dormant home-life, not telling a soul what he thinks or feels, or whether he thinks or feels at all.

☞ It is said that the Hon. Lewis Cass is writing, and intends to publish, the history of the events which, in his knowledge, have produced the present state of things with the slave oligarchy.

☞ A letter from Minster Fogg, states that Garibaldi said to him, "If your war is for Freedom, I am with you with 20,000 men."

☞ Gen. Banks is said to be very popular with his division, and, in fact, with all who have occasion to meet him.

Nelson and Brownlow of Tennessee.

The Secession scoundrels of Tennessee, having disposed their legions among the unarmed and loyal Unionists of East Tennessee, have at last summoned up resolution sufficient to commence the work of arresting those gallant leaders, whose only crime has been remaining true to their country, when all around were basely betraying her. The latest news from East Tennessee is to the effect that Gen. Zollicoffer has dared to suppress the honest and outspoken Union paper conducted by the brave old Parson Brownlow—the Knoxville Whig. We will soon hear of the fighting Parson in some other character. Hon. Horace Maynard, of Tennessee, who has been in Cincinnati for some days, says that his colleague, Hon. T. A. Nelson, was arrested in attempting to make his way North, and that he is to be tried on a charge of treason.—Mr. Nelson's route led him through a corner of Virginia, where he was discovered and taken by a party of Secessionists. Messrs. Nelson and Maynard have just been elected to the United States Congress, by their old constituents, who are still true to the Union.

Mr. Maynard says the Union feeling is warm in Eastern Tennessee, and that the people are anxious to fight for the preservation of the Government. He is astonished to find an anti-war faction appearing in the North, and to learn that there are here and there persons willing to make peace by consenting to the destruction of the Union. Secession was rapidly sinking in the South before the battle of Manassas The victories of Gen. M'Clellan's forces in Western Virginia had a very disheartening effect upon the Secessionists. Even now, many people in the South believe the Manassas battle stories in the Secesh papers must be composed chiefly of falsifications. They have been lied to so extravagantly that they have become very incredulous.

ARREST OF A REVEREND CLERK.—The Rev. T. Fiske, a Universalist preacher, editor, etc., formerly of Philadelphia, has for some time past held a good position in the dead letter department of the Post Office. By his folly he has fallen. For some time past the meagre returns he was making caused suspicion. On Friday morning last, before the reverend gentleman had commenced his work, a couple of letters containing marked notes and specie were put into his pile. In the afternoon, as usual, he stated to the chief of the office that he had no returns to make, and he was at once arrested by an officer who was present. He was searched, and the marked money found upon his person. In the drawer of his desk a number of licentious books, which fitly correspond with his pretended character for strict morality were found. Thro' the intercessions of his wife and daughter, who soon heard of his arrest, the legal proceedings against him were dropped, and he was dismissed from office.

TOUCHING INCIDENT OF THE BATTLE FIELD.—A staff officer from Charleston, engaged in the battle of the 21st of July, says: "I rode out the day after the battle to view the ground, and passed piles of dead in various positions. Under a large tree I saw a body lying, well dressed, with a fancy sword, and a handkerchief over the face. It attracted my curiosity. I stopped, removed the handkerchief, and saw one of the handsomest faces I ever met with, of a boy not more than 12 or 14 years of age. His appearance and dress indicated high social position; probably he was a temporary aid to a general officer. To ascertain who he was I examined his pocket, and found a testament, in which was written, 'James Simmons, New York. From his loving mother. My son, remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth.' I wished very much to take the body away, but I was 6 miles from quarters, on horseback, and it was impossible."

GARIBALDI AND THE WAR.—There is no truth in the report that Garibaldi proposes to help us out of our troubles. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says: "A gentleman here, personally acquainted with Garibaldi and his son, received a letter from the latter, a few days ago, in which the son says he desires himself to come out and take a part in the struggle now going on here for liberty, but that his father objected, on the ground that ours was a family quarrel, and could be settled more easily without foreign influence than with it; that it was based on a polical question, in which the nations were not interested, and in the settlement of which they could not become parties. These are now the views and sentiments of Garibaldi, as expressed by his son, in a private correspondence of very late date."

A SECESSION PAPER CLEANED OUT.—The office of the Democratic Standard, at Concord, N. Hampshire, was completely relieved of its contents on the afternoon of the 8th, by a mob composed of the soldiers of the returned First Regiment, and of citizens. The Standard published an article reflecting on the soldiers. They demanded retraction, and the Palmers—the editors and proprietors—shook pistols and axes out of the windows, and dared the mob, while the city authorities endeavored to quell the disturbance. The Palmers fired four shots, and wounding two soldiers. The office was immediately torn in pieces and the material burned in the street. The Palmers took refuge in the attic, but were finally found and carried to the police station, though with great difficulty.

A DESPERATE SUICIDE.—A foreigner named Frank Howard, who seems to have had no relations in this country, perpetrated a most desperate suicide near Eaton, Ohio, on the 31st ult. He went to the barn, set it on fire, and after the fire had got a fair start, with the intention of removing every trace of himself, he then cut his throat and immediately threw himself in the fire. But the loss of blood did not cause the pain of burning. Human nature could not endure it, and with his clothes burned off, and his flesh literally on fire, he jumped into a well, that drowning might take place of burning, and in this condition his dead body was found.

☞ A house near Bull Run, the abode of an aged widow lady, named Mrs. J. Henry, was riddled with cannon and musket shot. The hissing balls passed through roof and walls, till the dwelling was a wreck. It is a sad story. She was bed-ridden, and as she lay in the horrid din, the missiles of death wounded her three times. She was a meek christian lady, and the Providence seems mysterious that made her dying bed the theatre of such scenes of warfare.

☞ Prince Napoleon's opinion of the rebel commanders he expressed as follows: "Gen. Beauregard has very much show—much pomp. A great many people are after him, with much noise. I have not a very high appreciation of him as a military man, but he is very much of a gentleman. Gen. Johnson is a very quiet, unassuming man, but brave, very brave, and I think a fine officer. You can tell that by his looks. But my impression of the troops is very bad."

☞ We invite special attention to the advertisement of Prof. Wood's Restorative Cordial and Blood Renovator, in another column. For weakness and general debility there is nothing like it; it will strengthen, exhilarate, create an appetite at once, regulate the bilious system, aid digestion and in short, restore the weakened organs to all their original vigor and strength. So valuable a Tonic Cordial should be in the hands of every invalid and in every family. Reader, try it.

☞ Reader, have you seen Prof. Wood's advertisement in our paper. Read it; it will interest you.

Infallible in correcting, regulating, and removing all obstructions, from whatever cause, and always successful as a preventative

There is not a lady living but what at some period of her life needs just such a medicine as "Duponco's Golden Pills." One of the first ladies of Chester told the Agent there that she had received so much benefit from the use of them, she would be willing to pay $5 a box, rather than be without them, if she could get them no less. The ingredients composing these pills are made known to every Agent. They will tell you they are perfectly harmless and yet will do all claimed for them. Full and explicit directions accompany each box. Price $1.00 per box. Sold by G. W. KESSLER, Druggist, sole Agent for Altoona, Pa.

Ladies by sending him $1.00 to the Altoona Post Office, can have the pills sent to any part of the country confidentially) by mail, "free of postage." Sold also by JOHN READ, Huntingdon, and by one Druggist in every village town and city in the State.

☞ Even those who are in the enjoyment of perfect health frequently have need to have recourse to tonics as preventives of disease. We are never too well armored against the assaults of "the ills that flesh is heir to."—Such an invigorater they may find in HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—a medicine that cannot be taken regularly without giving vitality and elasticity to the system. At this season, particularly, the strongest man is not proof against the malaria, in certain sections of the country. In all cases of fever and ague, the BITTERS is more potent than amount of quinine, while the most dangerous cases of bilious fever yield to its wonderful properties. Those who have tried the medicine will never use another, for any of the ailments which the Hostetter Bitters professes to subdue. To those who have not made the experiment, we cordially recommend an early application to the Bitters, whenever they are stricken by diseases of the digestive organs. ☞ Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

☞ We take great pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Prof. Wood's Restorative Cordial and Blood Renovator, in another column of our paper. It is seldom we take any notice of patent medicines, but we cannot refrain from speaking of this Cordial and do justice to the afflicted as well as ourselves. We have watched the progress of this Cordial since its first introduction to the public, and we are satisfied that there is nothing in use for cleaning the system and renovating the blood, that can be compared with Prof. Wood's Cordial—Any one suffering from general debility, after using one bottle will see its beneficial effects. We have a long acquaintance with the proprietor, and know him to be skilled in the science of medicine; and anything compounded by him the public can rely upon as being just what it is recommended. We would advise all sick or well to get a bottle. It is pleasant to the taste, and exhilarating to the system. But we refrain from further comments, as any one, after using one bottle, will be satisfied as to its effects.

A Card to the Suffering.

The Rev. Wm. Cosgrove, while laboring as a missionary in Japan, was cured of Consumption, when all other means had failed, by a recipe obtained from a learned physician residing in the great city of Jeddo. This recipe has cured great numbers who were suffering from Consumption, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Coughs and Colds, and the debility and nervous depression caused by these disorders.

Desirous of benefitting others, I will send this recipe, which I brought home with me, to all who need it, free of charge. Address

LOCAL ITEMS.

☞ We scarce ever pay much attention to complaints made by soldier letter-writers, as to the treatment they receive at different points as they pass from one place to another, because we cannot believe they are intentionally treated disrespectfully in any town in the loyal States. When there are from one thousand to two thousand of them together, they should not expect that a couple of hundred citizens of any town can lionize, or even accommodate all them as they deserve, and we know that the right thinking ones among them do not expect it. And again, we not unfrequently notice that correspondents from the same company, tell far different tales about the same town. One has been kindly treated, and he puffs the ladies, and babies and everybody; another may have been overlooked, or perchance, met some selfish, ill-natured person, who treated him rudely, and he forthwith indulges in a condemnation of all the inhabitants of the place. We are led to these remarks by noticing, in the last number of the Huntingdon Globe a communication from a member of the M'Keesport company, attached to the 9th Regiment, Penna. R. C., in which the writer states the soldiers could scarce get a drink of water in this place without paying for it. Now it is known to all who have passed through this place, that there are two or three dozen of nozzles on the veranda in front of the Logan House, from which flows as good and pure water as ever passed down the throat of the correspondent of the Globe, and these nozzles were free to all, and the wash-bowls underneath them were also free for the soldiers to wash in, and many availed themselves of the privilege. Besides these places, the Company had a large hose attached to a plug at the Depot, from which water flowed all the time, enough, we are sure, to have supplied the whole Regiment. If the correspondent of the Globe had difficulty in getting water, he must have gone considerably out of the way to hunt it.

"THE GOOD WORK GOES BRAVELY ON."—Quite a number of the regimental and company officers recently in command of the three months' volunteers from this and adjoining counties, are already at work organizing new companies and regiments for active service, and ere many moons wane it is more than probable that Blair and her immediate sisters will have sent to the war fully as many of their loyal sons as responded to the first call for troops. The returned volunteers seem to be among the most eager to enlist in these new organizations, and the experience and courage they are known to possess cannot fail to render them efficient and fearless in the discharge of their duties as soldiers. The brave sons of the Alleghenies are the right material to defend their country's flag, and while we regret the stern necessity that calls them from their peaceful homes, it is a consolation to know that those who are left behind can purchase their groceries, provisions, dry goods, etc., at the Cheap Cash Store of Murphy & McPike, corner of Virginia and Caroline streets, at lower rates than they have heretofore been offered in this "neck of timber." If you are not convinced, go and see for yourselves.

☞ Recruiting officers are flitting hither and thither, and those who have any desire to spend a few years upon the "tented field," and taste the realities of the "pomp and circumstance of glorious war," will have no difficulty in procuring a place in either an artillery, infantry, cavalry, zouave, or independent company. As a general thing, our boys prefer our home officers to those of the regular service or from a distance. Some of the companies are filling up very rapidly and will soon be ready to march.

STILL ANOTHER CHANCE.—Those who are anxious to be off to the war, have another chance of doing so by giving in their names to Lieut. Wm. H. Crawford, now stopping at the American Hotel. Lieut. Crawford is recruiting for Company A, 7th Regiment, now in Camp Wright, Pittsburgh. The company is commanded by Capt. Alex. Hays, and the Regiment by Col. O. H. Rippey. Recruits to leave for camp immediately.

PIC NIC.—The Pic Nic of Veranda Lodge is to be held in the grove immediately back of West Ward school property, instead of in Miller's Woods, as we stated last week. Persons attending the Pic Nic will leave their baskets of provisions at the following places, viz.:—those of East Altoona at Hamilton's store, and those of West and North Wards, at the Post Office.

☞ Rev. Coleman, preacher in charge of Birmingham circuit, was slightly injured, a few days since, by receiving in his side the contents of a shot-gun, which accidentally exploded in the hands of another person.

CAMP-MEETING.—The camp-meeting of the M. E. Church, for Birmingham circuit, will commence on Friday next. The ground selected is a grove on M'Cahan's farm, a short distance above Birmingham station.

LUTHERAN SYNOD.—The Allegheny Synod of the Lutheran Church will meet in this place on Thursday, September 5th, and will likely remain in session for a week or more.

PAY, IF POSSIBLE.—We hear complaints of a disposition upon the part of those well able to pay as they go, to avail themselves of the plausible excuse of dull times to avoid the payment of little bills due to tradesmen, mechanics and others. This is to be regretted. Nothing so contributes to weaken confidence and depress business activity, as to withdraw from the retail trade of any business its just due, in times like the present, and we hold that the man who would urge the present troubles as an excuse for not paying small bills, when he can pay as well at one time as at another, is guilty of one the worst of the moral wrongs attendant upon business operations in a season of general depression. Never hoard up money when nothing is to be gained by it, more especially when you have debts which are over due to parties dependant upon their earnings to sustain themselves and families. Pay, if possible.

WOMAN KILLED.—A most distressing accident occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Cresson, on Tuesday evening last. It appears that about seven o'clock, a poor woman, who had been at the Cresson Hotel for the purpose of getting some cold victuals for her little ones, was returning to her home, when she saw a train approaching her on the track. She stepped to one side to avoid it, and not perceiving a second train which was approaching from a different direction, she was run over and instantly killed. Deceased leaves a family of five small children, who now, deprived of their only earthly protector, are thrown on the cold charity of the world for support.

KILLED ON THE RAILROAD.—The through express train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which left here on Friday morning, ran over a woman a short distance above Millerstown, killing her instantly. The engine was rounding a curve, when the woman was discovered walking on the track a short distance from the engine, and the engineer finding it impossible to check the speed of the train, sounded the whistle, to which, however, the deceased paid no attention. The result was, the engine struck her, throwing her some distance off the track. The engineer stopped the train as soon as possible, and backed up to the scene of the accident, when the woman was found dead, with one leg broken and her person very much bruised. She was recognized as belonging to the neighborhood, and had had been partially insane for some time before. Her remains were left at Millers town for interment.

HOW TO FINISH THE ARMY WORM.—Mr. Eldridge, of Chatham, has invented a way to destroy the army worm, which we submit for the benefit of our readers. Seeing their approach, he took a plow and made a furrow on each side of the fence, in which he dug holes about 10 feet apart, and when they came to this entrenchment they could not scale it, but crawling lengthwise they would fall into these holes, and were thus easily destroyed.

☞ Mrs. King's School will open on Wednesday, August 21st, at her residence on Virginia street. We deem it unnecessary to say anything in Mrs. K's favor, as those who have patronized her heretofore are well aware of her superior qualifications as a teacher, and will of course send their children to her again.

WANTED.—A number of able-bodied young men are wanted to fill up the ranks of the Negley Independent Rangers, a rifle company which is to be independent and have a roving commission, not subject to the orders of either Colonel or Brigadier General. Applications can be made to Capt. McNally or Lieut. S. T. Davis.

☞ We notice in the Carlisle Democrat, of the 7th inst., that four soldiers belonging to the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Regiments of this State, which were then encamped there, had died, and that two of them, viz: Joseph Mauk and Jacob Haldeman, were from this county.

HORSES WANTED.—Our townsmen, Allison & Lowther, want some 200 Artillery Horses for the U. S. government. The horses must be bays, browns or blacks, from five to nine years old, and from fifteen to sixteen hands high.—Bring along your nags, gentlemen.

ABLE-BODIED MEN WANTED.—A recruiting rendezvous has been this day opened in Altoona, for the 12th Infantry, Regular U. S. Army. Pay $13 per month. Term of enlistment 3 years. Rendezvous in Runyan's Market House, (Plack's store), on Virginia street.

MORE SOLDIERS HOME.—Captain Holland's company, from Duncansville, and Capt. Bobb's company, from Martinsburg, arrived at home on Friday last. They each received a hearty welcome from the citizens of their respective towns.

CAVALRY.

A cavalry company is being formed in Blair county, under the command of Capt. T. C. Williams and Lieut. Geo. W. Harris. It will proceed to Philadelphia to be attached to Gen. Harlan's regiment, accepted by the Secretary of War. Horses and equipments furnished. Pay from $14 to $24 per month. Medical attendance, rations and clothing provided. Here is an opportunity for our young men to serve their country never before offered. The company will proceed to Philadelphia next week.

$100 bounty paid to each man at the end of the war.

Apply at Laughman's store, Adams' Express Office, Altoona, or at Williamsburg or Hollidaysburg.

A CARD.

I would hereby announce to the citizens of Altoona that I have disposed of my Gas Fitting and Plumbing establishmeat to Mr. Edmund Anstice. On taking leave of the citizens of this place, in a business way, I desire to return my sincere thanks to those who have favored me with their patronage, hoping that my efforts to fill their orders have proven as satisfactory to them, as their fair dealings have been agreeable to me.

My books and accounts are in the hands of Benj. F. Yose, Esq., at the General Superintendant's Office, who will attend to the settlement of all accounts. W. M. OGELSBY.
ALTOONA, Aug. 13, '61.

By the President of the United States.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, A joint committee of both Houses of Congress has waited upon the President of the United States, and requested him to recommend a day of public humiliation, prayer and fasting, to be observed by the people of the United States with religious solemnities, and the offering of fervent supplications to Almighty God for the safety and welfare of these States, his blessings on their arms, and a speedy restoration to peace; and whereas, it is fit and becoming in all people, at all times, to acknowledge and revere the Supreme Government of God, to bow in humble submission to His chastisements, to confess and deplore their sins and transgressions, in the full conviction that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and to pray with all fervency and contrition for the pardon of their past offences, and for a blessing upon their present and prospective actions; and whereas, when our beloved country, once, by the blessing of God, united, prosperous and happy, is now afflicted with factious and civil war, it is peculiarly fit for us to recognize the hand of God in this visitation, and, in sorrowful remembrance of our own faults and crimes as a Nation and as individuals, to humble ourselves before Him and to pray for His mercy; to pray that we may be spared further punishment, though most justly deserved; that our arms may be blessed and made effectual for the re-establisment of law, order and peace throughout our country, and that the inestimable boon of civil and religious liberty, earned under His guidance and blessing, by the labors and sufferages of our fathers, may be restored in all its original excellency, Therefore I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do appoint the last Thursday in September next as a day of humiliation, prayer and fasting for all the people of the Nation, and I do earnestly recommend to the people, and especially to all ministers and teachers of religion, of all denominations, and to all heads of families, to observe and keep that day according to their several creeds and modes of worship in all humility, and with all religious solemnity, to the end that the United prayer of the Nation may ascend to the Throne of Grace and bring down plentiful blessings upon our own country.

In testimony whereof, &c.
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President.
WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

THE TWO SHERMANS.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Post says: Wm. T. Sherman of Ohio, and Thomas W. Sherman, of Rhode Island, both graduates in the same class at West Point; both entered the same regiment—the Third Artillery; both remained in the Army, and both served in the Mexican War. Hence the confusion of names. It is the Rhode Island Sherman who commanded and gave his name to the celebrated Battery. Sherman's Battery, though it still retains the name, is in reality Ayre's Battery. It was Sherman, of Ohio, who commanded a brigade in the battle at Bull Run. Captain Ayre's, called Sherman's, was also under his command. The Battery, the statements of the Richmond journals to the contrary notwithstanding—was not taken, but, after a desperate contest, every gun was brought off in safety, with two others belonging to another battery. Sherman, of Rhode Island, was not in the battle at the Stone Bridge.

THE HAMPTON LEGION.—The Charleston Courier says that Mr. J. A. Thompson, of the Washington Light Infantry, relates to a member of the Committee from this city, a fact which explains in great part the severe and persistent attack and concentration by the enemy on the Hampton Legion at the late battle. A renegade shopkeeper, who had supplied the Legion with milk when in camp near Richmond, went over to the enemy before the battle, and described in full the dress and equipments of the Legion. It is some consolation to know that this rascal renegade was detected, and was shot on Monday, 29th, by order of Gen. Beauregard.

☞ The Rebel losses at Bull Run increase rather than diminish, by the official reports. Some of their regiments were badly injured, in fact totally disorganized and demoralized by the action. The Southern papers admit that the Rebel loss was very large, but add that the U. S. loss was still larger. The Richmond Dispatch of the 27th says the returns show 600 killed of the Rebels, and 2500 wounded. This is double the loss of the U. S. troops, and gives a very good reason why the Rebels did not improve their "victory," which virtually to them is a defeat.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased the Gas Fitting and Plumbing Establishment of Mr. W. M. Ogelsby, I will carry on the business at the stand occupied by him, in Brant's Row, three doors below the Post Office. Having served a full term of apprenticeship at the business, I feel sure that I can render satisfaction to those who entrust their work to me. I will at all times keep on hand a large and varied supply of Gas Fixtures and will put them in at short notice and on the most reasonable terms. I respectfully solicit a share of patronage in my line.

THE
WORTHY OF
Universal Confidence and Patronage.
FOR STATESMEN, JUDGES, CLERGYMEN,
Ladies and Gentlemen. In all parts of the world testify to the efficacy of Prof. O. J. Wood's Hair Restorative, and gentlemen of the Press are unanimous in its praise. A few testimonials only can be here given; see circular for more, and it will be impossible for you to doubt.
47 Wall street, New York, Dec. 20, 1858.
GENTLEMEN:—Your note of the 16th inst., has been received, saying that you had heard that I had been benefitted by the use of Wood's Hair Restorative, and requesting my certificate of the fact if I had no objection to give it.
I award it to you cheerfully, because I think it due. My age is about 50 years; the color of my hair auburn, and inclined to curl. Some five or six years since it began to turn gray, and the scalp on the crown of my head to lose its sensibility and dandruff to form upon it. Each of these disagreeabilities increased with time, and about 4 months since a fourth was added to them, by hair falling off the top off my head and threatening to make me bald.
In this unpleasant predicament, I was induced to try Wood's Hair Restorative, mainly to arrest the falling off of my hair, for I had really no expectation that gray hair could ever be restored to its original color except from dyes. I was, however, greatly surprised to find after the use of two bottles only, that not only was the falling off arrested, but the color was restored to the gray hairs and sensibility to the scalp, and dandruff ceased to form on my head, very much to the gratification of my wife, at whose solicitation I was induced to try it.
For this, among the many obligations I owe to her sex, I strongly recommend all husbands who value the admiration of their wives to profit by my example, and use it if growing gray or getting bald.
Very respectfully,
BEN. A. LAVENDER.
To O J Wood & Co., 444 Broadway, New York.
My family are absent from the city, and I am no longer at No. 11 Carroll Place.
Shumaston, Ala., July 20th, 1859.
To Prof. O J Wood: Dear Sir—Your Hair Restorative has done my hair so much good since I commenced the use of it, that I wish to make known to the PUBLIC of its effects on the hair, which are great. A man or woman may be nearly deprived of hair, and by a resort to your "Hair Restorative," the hair will return more beautiful than ever; at least this is my experience. Believe it all!
Yours truly. WM. H. KENEDY.
P. S.—You can publish the above if you like. By publishing in our Southern papers you will get more patronage south. I see several of your certificates in the Mobile Mercury, a strong Southern paper. W H KENEDY.
WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.
Prof. O J Wood: Dear Sir—Having had the misfortune to lose the best portion of my hair, from the effects of the yellow fever, in New Orleans in 1853, I was induced to make a trial of your preparation, and found it to answer as the very thing needed. My hair is now thick and glossy, and no words can express my obligations to you in giving to the afflicted such a treasure. FINLEY JOHNSON.
The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium, and small; the small holds ½ a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3.

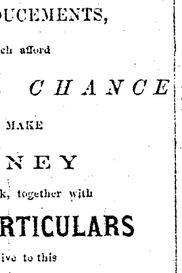
JACOB SNYDER, TAILOR,

The Hero of One Hundred Fits per Month!



I would respectfully set forth my claim to public attention, as a Fashionable Tailor, as follows:

Because I keep an excellent assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings and Trimmings, which, when examined, always please.

Because my work is made up in a manner that takes down the country and gives all my customers a city appearance.

Because I am not inferior as a Cutter to the best to be found anywhere.

Because long experience in my business gives me entire control over it, and I am not dependant upon any one to fit me out of the suds.

Because I am still on the sunny side of forty, and therefore my tastes as a Cutter and workman unimpaired.

Call on me, in the corner room of the "Brant House." Give me a trial and you will go away pleased.

PROF. L. MILLER'S

HAIR INVIGORATOR!!

AN EFFECTIVE, SAFE AND ECONOMICAL COMPOUND.

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR to its original color without dyeing, and preventing the hair from turning gray.

FOR PREVENTING BALDNESS, and curing it, when there is the least particle of vitality or recuperative energy remaining.

FOR REMOVING SCURF AND DANDRUFF, and all cutaneous affections at the Scalp.

FOR BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, imparting to it an unequalled gloss and brilliancy, making it soft and silky in its texture and causing it to curl readily.

The great celebrity and the increasing demand for this unequalled preparation, convince the proprietor that one trial is only necessary to satisfy a discerning public of its superior qualities over any other preparation at present in use. It cleanses the head and scalp from dandruff and other cutaneous diseases, causes the hair to grow luxuriently, and gives it a rich, soft, glossy flexible appearance, and also where the hair is loosening and thining, it will give strength and vigor to the roots, and restore the growth to those parts which have become bald, causing it to yield a fresh covering of hair.

There are hundreds of ladies and gentlemen in New York who have had their hair restored by the use of this Invigorator, when all other preparations had failed. L. M. has in his possession letters innumerable testifying to the above facts, from persons of the highest respectability. It will effectually prevent the hair from turning gray until the latest period of life; and in cases where the hair has already changed its color, the use of the Invigorator will with certainty restore it to its original hue, giving it a dark, glossy appearance. As a perfume for the toilet and a Hair Dressing it is particularly recommended, having an agreeable fragrance; and the great facilities it affords in dressing the hair, which, when moist with the Invigorator can be dressed in any required form so as to preserve its place, whether plain or in curls—hence the great demand for it by the ladies as a standard toilet article which none ought to be without, as the price places it within the reach of all, being, per bottle, to be had at all respectable druggists and perfumers.

ONLY 25 CENTS

L. MILLER would call the attention of Parents and Guardians to the use of the Invigorator, in cases where the children's Hair inclines to be weak. The use of it lays the foundation for a good head of hair, as it removes any impurities that may have become connected with the scalp, the removal of which is necessary both for the health of the child, and the future appearance of its Hair.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the fac simile LOUIS MILLER being on the outer wrapper; also, L. MILLER'S HAIR INVIGORATOR, N. Y. blown in the glass.

LABOR-SAVING WASHING MACHINE.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVING purchased the right for Blair county, of

Tolhurst's Improved Washing Machine,

are now manufacturing them at Altoona, and intend to supply them to those persons throughout the county who desire a LABOR-SAVING MACHINE.

This machine is got up on an entirely new principle, and is established, by those who have seen it in use, the best that has ever been brought before the public.

Among the many advantages of this machine over all others may be mentioned the following:

1st. Its simplicity of construction, making it almost impossible to get out of order.

2d. Its speed, which astonishes alike the operator and the looker on.

3rd. The facility with which it adapts itself to the bulk or quantity of clothes desired to be washed.

4th. It washes equally well the finest and lightest fabric or the coarsest and heaviest, such as bed-quilts, comforts, blankets, &c.

McMINN & DERN,
Altoona, Blair County, Pa.

We the undersigned, hereby certify that we are now using Tolhurst's Improved Washing Machine and are fully satisfied that it is a very excellent article of the kind: combining as it does great speed with little labor, and performing its work in the most satisfactory manner. We therefore cheerfully recommend it to all who desire a real labor-saving washing machine.

HAT & CAP EMPORIUM,

JESSE SMITH, Proprietor.

ALL THE LATEST STYLES OF HATS and CAPS constantly on hand. It is the determination of the proprietor of this Emporium to keep up with the times and fashions, and to do this he spares no expense. He has just received his supply of among which will be found styles and qualities to suit the tastes of old or young, plain or fashionable.

SPRING AND SUMMER HATS AND CAPS,

To give the names, colors, qualities and styles of all his goods in this line, would only confuse the reader, and he would not then understand or appreciate the diversity and magnitude of his stock. It must be seen to be believed.—Go and see Jesse if you want to see a live hatter and a fashionable stock.

He has also a fine assortment of CHILDREN'S HATS and FLATS, to which he invites the attention of solicitous mothers. At his store they will find something which will excel all their neighbors in the way of fashion and beauty. Go, mothers, and examine and select from Jesse Smith's stock.

HAIR OILS, COLOGNES, POMades, Shaving Cream, Toilet Soaps, &c. for sale by [1-tf.] G. W. KESSLER.

ALL THE STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES AT [1-tf. KESSLER'S.

MOFFAT'S

LIFE PILLS and PHŒNIX BITTERS.

THESE MEDICINE HAVES NOW been before the public for a period of thirty years, and during that time have maintained a high character in almost every part of the globe, for their extraordinary and immediate power of restoring perfect health to persons suffering under nearly every kind of disease to which the human frame is liable.

The following are among the distressing variety of human diseases in which the

are well known to be infallible.

DYSPEPSIA, by thoroughly cleansing the first and second stomachs, and creating a flow of pure, healthy bile, instead of the stale and acrid kind; FLATULENCY, Loss or Appetite, Heartburn, Headache, Restlessness, Ill Temper, Anxiety, Languor, and Melancholy, which are the general symptoms of Dyspepsia, will vanish, as a natural consequence of its cure.

COSTIVENESS, by cleansing the whole length of the intestines with a solvent process, and without violence; all violent purges leave the bowels costive within two days.

FEVERS of all kinds, by restoring the blood to a regular circulation, through the process of respiration in such cases, and the thorough solution of all intestinal obstruction in others.

The Life Medicines have been known to cure RHEUMATISM permanently in three weeks, and GOUT in half that time, by removing local inflammation from the muscles and ligaments of the joints.

DROPSIES of all kinds, by freeing and strengthening the kidneys and bladder; they operate most delightfully on these important organs, and hence have ever been found a certain remedy for the worst cases of GRAVEL.

Also WORMS, by dislodging from the turnings of the bowels the slimy matter to which these creatures adhere.

OBSTINATE and INVETERATE SORES, by the perfect purity which these LIFE MEDICINES give to the blood, and all the humors.

SCORBUTIC ERUPTIONS and BAD COMPLEXIONS, by their alterative effect upon the fluids that feed the skin, and the morbid state of which occasions all eruptive complaints, sallow, cloudy, and other disagreeable complexions.

The use of these Pills for a very short time will effect an entire cure of SALT RHEUM, and a striking improvement in the clearness of the skin. COMMON COLDS and INFLUENZA will always be cured by one dose, or by two in the worst cases.

PILES.—The original proprietor of these medicines, was cured of Piles, of 35 years standing, by the use of the Life Medicine alone.

FEVER & AGUE.—For this scourge of the Western country, these medicines will be found a safe, speedy and certain remedy. After medicines leave the system subject to a return of the disease—a cure by these medicines is permanent—every dose is satisfied, and be cured.

BILLIOUS FEVERS and LIVER COMPLAINTS.—General debility, loss of appetite and diseases of females—the medicines have been used with the most beneficial results in cases of this description.—Kings Evil and Scrofula, in its worst forms, yields to the mild yet powerful action of these remarkable Medicines. Night Sweats, Nervous Debility, Nervous Complaints of all kinds, Palpitation of the Heart, Painters' Colic, are speedily cured.

MERCURIAL DISEASES.—Persons whose constitutions have been impaired by the injudicious use of Mercury, will find these medicines a perfect cure, as they never fail to eradicate from the system all the effects of Mercury, infinitely sooner than the most powerful preparation of Sarsaparilla.

Prepared and sold by W. B. MOFFAT.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regular ly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove. Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

ONE-THIRD LESS FUEL

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves. JOHN SHOEMAKER.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

The proprietors and manufacturers of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. A few facts upon this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or blazoning puffery. The consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for the last year amounted to over a half-million bottles, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the preparation, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians in those sections of the country where the article is best known, who not only recommend the Bitters to their patients, but are ready at all times to give testimonials to its efficacy in all cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases resulting therefrom.

This is not a temporary popularity, obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as time itself.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have proved a Godsend to regions where fever and ague and various other bilious complaints have counted their victims by hundreds. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" are a certain cure for the Dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the restoration of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature.

Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find in it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and rejuvenating generally. We have the evidence of thousands of aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation while suffering from stomach derangements and general debility; acting under the advice of physicians, they have abandoned all deleterious drugs and fairly tested the merits of this article. A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mother and child is so exceedingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in her extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period of maternity arrive during the summer season, the wear of body and mind is generally aggravated. Here, then, is a necessity for a stimulant to recuperate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under her exhausting trials and responsibilities. Nursing mothers generally prefer the Bitters to all other invigorators that receive the endorsement of physicians, because it is agreeable to the taste as well as certain to give a permanent increase of bodily strength.

All those persons, to whom we have particularly referred above, to wit: sufferers from fever and ague, caused by malaria, diarrhœa, dysentery, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases or derangements of the stomach, superannuated invalids, persons of sedentary occupation, and nursing mothers, will consult their own physical welfare by giving to Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.
